MICHAEL NARAGON

TUTOR

ABOUT MICHAEL

Michael has a B.S. in Social Studies Education from Bob Jones University and M.A. degree in History from Clemson University and Journalism from Indiana University-Bloomington. He began teaching math and history in the classroom in 2001 and continued through 2012. He's taught AP World History and AP Government, as well as middle and high school math through pre-calculus. In 2012, Michael moved into full-time private tutoring, and has since worked with hundreds of students nationally, helping them boost grades, tests scores, and confidence.

Michael draws on his 20 years of teaching and tutoring experience to oversee Marigold Prep's curriculum and tutor development, ensuring every program receives the highest levels of instruction, personalization, and expertise.

RAE FREUDENBERGER

TUTOR

ABOUT RAE

Rae earned her MA in Teaching from the University of Portland and her MA in Creative Writing and Reading Theory from San Francisco State University, after graduating Magna Cum Laude from Loyola Marymount with a BA in English. She has worked as a full-time virtual tutor since 2008, inspiring her students to find and exceed their goals in academics, standardized testing, and life.

As a creative extrovert and natural mentor, Rae builds life-long relationships with her students and their families. With thousands of hours of tutoring and test prep under her belt, she looks at challenges as opportunities and encourages her students to do the same. She's a voracious reading and self-proclaimed language nerd, but don't let that fool you. Her ability to break down complex math concepts, especially for more verbal or creative thinkers, has enabled countless students achieve top scores on their SAT/ ACTs.

AMANDA DAVIS

TUTOR

ABOUT AMANDA

With a B.S. in Mathematics and Secondary Education, Amanda is as much of a “numbers-person” as she is a “people-person”. She's shared her passion for teaching math in the classroom for over a decade, covering everything from middle school math to calculus.

With diverse experience teaching in top-tier high schools, underserved communities, and special education, Amanda forms deep, personal connections with her students no matter how they learn or where they are from. She’s as excited to help a college student tackle differential equations as she is to help a 6th grader understand basic Algebra and often acts as a mentor for young women interested in pursuing STEM majors. When she’s not tutoring for Marigold Prep, Amanda enjoys exploring the great outdoors of the Pacific Northwest and nerding out about space.

CHRIS KESTER

TUTOR

ABOUT CHRIS

Chris graduated from University of Boulder with a Bachelor's in Chemical Engineering and worked as an environmental engineer until ultimately finding his passion as a full-time tutor. Now, with 7 years of virtual tutoring experience under his belt, he combines his engineering and teaching experience to mentor students to increase grades and test scores and lower stress.

A self-identified test prep and STEM nerd, Chris is excited by complex problem solving and even more excited to share his knowledge with students. Well versed in working with all types of learners, Chris has helped both highly advanced STEM students and students struggling to gain confidence in general academics. He thrives as an instructor and a mentor and has a unique ability to make students feel both supported and held accountable.

JACK LANCASTER

TUTOR

ABOUT JACK

With a doctorate in Physical Therapy and BS in Human Biology, Jack combines a contagious passion for learning with a coach-like teaching style. Drawing on professional experiences in both education and healthcare, Jack has a unique ability to identify student challenges and create actionable plans that motivate students to overcome them.

Through a versatile and highly personalized approach, Jack has supported success for all types of learners in a wide breadth of subjects. From executive functioning, to test prep, to advanced STEM concepts, Jack often works with students long-term to tackle a number of academic challenges.

When Jack isn't helping students lower their stress levels and achieve higher grades and test scores, you can find him lifting weights, practicing yoga, or reading science fiction.

JENNA GLAZA

TUTOR

ABOUT JENNA

After earning her B.A. in Biology and M.A. in Science Education from the University of Iowa, Jenna taught AP Biology, Physics, and Environmental Sciences in the classroom. It was here she discovered the power of sketch-noting and story-boarding techniques, especially with her students who typically struggled with math and science. She continues to incorporate science-backed visualization techniques into her teaching, as she finds it helps her students "touch and feel" otherwise abstract concepts.

In addition to teaching advanced STEM concepts in the classroom, Jenna has experience as a math interventionist, test prep tutor, and executive functioning coach. She's passionate about helping students reach those "a-ha" moments, where they are able to break big concepts into manageable chunks and build confidence as a result. Jenna is equally excited to work with students aiming for 5's on AP exams as she is to work with students who are struggling, and goes above and beyond to personalize her approach accordingly.
